MAJOR UNINSURED RISKS

Risks may be uninsured for a number of reasons, for example:

- Under-insurance - if your sums insured or declared insurable values are inadequate, and the policy contains a coinsurance or average clause, you will not receive the full amount of the loss.
- Inadequate loss limits - if the sum insured is less than the amount of your exposure, any loss in excess of the sum insured will not be insured.
- No insurance - if you elect not to insure a particular risk, you must bear all losses yourself. • A deductible or excess under a policy – you must bear the first part of the loss up to the amount of the deductible or excess.
- Excluded perils – some policies exclude perils, for example flood, storm surge and subsidence. You will not be insured for an excluded peril unless you ask for the cover (which can be expensive as there is generally a limited availability of cover in these areas)

Our concern lies not so much in the fact that you may retain certain insurable risks, but that you may do so without fully recognising the fact, and without making a conscious decision to do so. Such conscious decisions should be reviewed from time to time in the light of changing circumstances. A potential problem area could arise from a series of losses, each subject to a heavy deductible.

A further concern is the possibility of the aggregation of self-insured risks. For example, one incident could give rise to a number of losses, leading to a combined loss figure well above an affordable level (e.g., a fire or explosion at a major location could involve building, plant and stock damage, business interruption, parked trucks and their loads, not to mention legal liability for injured workers and third parties' property or injury).

With this in mind, we have indicated below a number of risks that you may not have considered at present. While no list of uninsured risks can ever be exhaustive, we have aimed to highlight the more significant omissions from most Insurance Programs. As any business is susceptible to change, we recommend you review these areas regularly to ensure that you are still comfortable with the scope of cover provided by your existing policies.
